MARGRES

With a know-how of over 30 years in the production of porcelain stoneware, Margres, so called since 2003, is strongly implemented in the Portuguese market and in the international market, because of the recognition of excellence of a product that is unique in its technical and aesthetic features.

Margres has defined a strategic path that allowed them to emerge as a respected brand in the ceramics sector, becoming synonymous with beauty, quality and prestige. Excellence also confirmed by the preference of architects and interior designers who increasingly choose Margres products.

The fascination with the details and the choice of the best raw materials are the assumptions needed for the creation of these products whose technical characteristics, of absolute excellence, are the result of cutting-edge technology. Margres has always been committed to maintain high quality standards with a strong focus in the field of technological research, in the policies of ecological production and in the management of their resources, which points to the continuity of the success of their products.

PREFACE

In 2013 Margres launched MARGRES ARCHITECTURE AWARD distinguishing and promoting the works that had prescribed products from the Kerlite and/or Linea ranges.

The success of this initiative, as well as the receptiveness of Margres' products, have shown the desire to turn it into a biennial award, coming to its third edition in 2017, also as a form of confirming the well-deserved recognition by the architects.

For that same reason, Margres, the Organizer of this Competition, launched MARGRES ARCHITECTURE AWARD and made it international, in 2019, which contributed to enhance and to valorize the quality, the creativity and the innovation of the projects.

Although the revolutionary laminated stoneware slabs from the Kerlite and/or Linea ranges offered unique advantages for the rehabilitation market, now, in 2021, Margres decided to wide the participation of architectural projects that use ceramics from all Margres range.

The use of full body porcelain stoneware and the potential of this material, either in traditional applications or in new applications, namely coating of decorative and street furniture, has a bigger potential and promotes a superior visibility to architectonic work.

The quality of the works that Margres has been following is reason enough to believe that this is the right moment to award architecture as well as Margres ceramics without limitations and that this will be a successful event, indicative of intellectual potential.
